The Evening Journal says the contract for the northern Railroad from Albany to Eagle Bridge has been given to Messrs. George W. Baker and Richard Hoes. The road will be completed in nine months to Cohoes, and in twenty months to Eagle Bridge. A new survey of the road has been made, and the line somewhat modified. The line of the road commences at the northern bounds of Albany and runs parallel with the Erie Canal, until it reaches a point about a quarter of a mile north of the West Troy Turnpike toll-gate, where it crosses the Canal on the flats east of the Schuyler mansion, thence north through Port Schuyler, thence north in front of the U. S. Arsenal, through Waterleat and West Troy, crossing on to Green Island on the east side of the iron bridge over the Cut which enters the Hudson.

From this place it runs north-west, crossing the Champlain canal about 1 mile north of the Plank Road toll-gate, thence northward to the village of Cohoes, crossing the Mohawk river about 400 feet west of the present bridge, thence a short distance west, then canal near the distillery, thence parallel with the Troy and Saratoga Railroad, crossing it thirteen miles from Albany; thence north, crossing the Hudson river, and running along the side hills to Sacatoga, which is twenty-one miles from Albany, thence running on the eastern bank of the Hoosic, passing through Valley Village and Johnson's Village, keeping the valley of the Hoosic till it connects with the main road at Eagle Bridge. The entire length of road from Albany to Eagle Bridge is a trifle over 32 miles. The highest grade does not exceed 45 feet to the mile, and this is only for a short distance between Green Island and Cohoes, and between the valley of the Hoosic and the Hudson.
